A Thesis is a scholarly written document of a smaller study on a particular topic in consistent with every detail of Research Methodology. It is usually written to obtain a Masters Degree. A Dissertation is a scholarly document of a larger scope on a particular topic consistent with every detail of the research methodology. There is a marked difference between a thesis and a dissertation. A thesis or dissertation is a document submitted in support of candidature for an academic degree or professional qualification presenting the author's research and findings. In some contexts, the word "thesis" or a cognate is used for part of a bachelor's or master's course, while "dissertation" is normally applied to a doctorate, while in other contexts, the reverse is true. The term graduate thesis is sometimes used to refer to both master's theses and doctoral dissertations. Essentially a thesis is a typewritten work, usually 50 to 350 pages in length depending on institutions, discipline, and educational level which is often aimed at addressing a particular problem in a given field. While a thesis is inadequate to address all the problems in a given field, it is succinct enough to address a specialized aspect of the problem by taking a stance or making a claim on what the resolution of the problem should be.
