administrative implementation of civil rights

The civil judicial procedure of each country is specific; it reflects the existing legal, national, and cultural traditions, but at the same time it cannot stand off the world trends in the civil procedure development. According to Art. 118 of the RF Constitution, justice in Russia is exercised in four forms. They are the constitutional, civil, criminal, and administrative judicial procedures. The civil judicial procedure in its turn includes two types of the procedure. The first one is the civil procedure itself in courts of general jurisdiction. The second one is the arbitration procedure in Civil rights may be restricted on the basis of a federal law and solely insofar as it is necessary for the purposes of protecting the fundamentals of the constitutional system, morality, health, rights and lawful interests of other persons providing for the defence of the country and state security. 3. When establishing, exercising and protecting civil rights and when discharging civil. 6. The operation and implementation of the norms of the civil law, contained in the Decrees of the President of the Russian Federation and in the decisions of the Government of the Russian Federation (hereinafter referred to as the other legal acts), shall be defined by the rules of the present chapter. Chapter 2. Arising of the Civil Rights and Duties, the Exercising and Protection of the Civil Rights.
