Bernard Law Montgomery, 1st Viscount Montgomery, in full Bernard Law Montgomery, 1st Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, of Hindhead byname Monty, (born Nov. 17, 1887, London, Eng. died March 24, 1976, near Alton, Hampshire), British field marshal and one of the outstanding Allied commanders in World War II. There Montgomery restored the troops' shaken confidence and, combining drive with caution, forced Rommel to retreat from Egypt after the Battle of El-Alamein (November 1942). kidzsearch.com > wiki Explore:images videos games. Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery, 1st Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, KG, GCB, DSO, PC (pronounced /mɒntɨˈmɛrɪv ˈɑːlmeɪn/; 17 November 1887 – 24 March 1976), often referred to as "Monty", was a British Army officer. He fought in World War I, and during World War II he successfully commanded Allied forces at the Battle of El Alamein, a major turning point in the Western Desert Campaign. Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery (17 November 1887 – 24 March 1976) was a British military commander of World War II, victor of El Alamein. I want to impose on everyone that the bad times are over, they are finished! Our mandate from the Prime Minister is to destroy the Axis forces in North Africa...It can be done, and it will be done! Said to his troops in North Africa, promising the swift defeat of Rommel[citation needed]. The time has come to deal the enemy a terrific blow in Western Europe.
