This is why most restaurant interiors are designed in tones of reds, browns, and golds. Similar is the case with a café. Although the food choices in a café are decidedly limited, the business still needs to be successful. So the desired theme along with the color and material palates need to be designed in dark, earthy tones with hints of red. The lighting needs to be carefully layered to highlight the golden accents. When you adhere to these small tricks, the interior automatically becomes both visually and appetizingly stimulating. What is a fine dining restaurant? Before you do anything at all, it very crucial to ask this question; what's 2 4.
