

The Holocaust: The Jewish Tragedy

Martin Gilbert (1987)

Fontana

Contents

Acknowledgements	11
Preface	12
1 First steps to iniquity	19
2 1933: the shadow of the swastika	32
3 Towards disinheritance	42
4 After the Nuremberg Laws	50
5 'Hunted like rats'	57
6 'The seeds of a terrible vengeance'	66
7 September 1939: the trapping of Polish Jewry	84
8 'Blood of innocents'	99
9 1940: 'a wave of evil'	105
10 War in the West: terror in the East	119
11 January—June 1941: the spreading net	137
12 'It cannot happen!'	154
13 'A crime without a name'	180
14 'Write and record!'	213
15 The 'final solution'	241
16 Eye-witness to mass murder	252
17 20 January 1942: the Wannsee Conference	280
18 'Journey into the unknown'	294
19 'Another journey into the unknown'	3 29
20 'If they have enough time, we are lost'	352
21 'Avenge our tormented people'	373
22 From Warsaw to Treblinka; 'these disastrous and horrible days'	387
23 Autumn 1942: 'at a faster pace'	402
24 'The most horrible of all horrors'	419
25 September—November 1942: the spread of resistance	466
26 'To save at least someone'	494
27 'Help me get more trains'	526
28 Warsaw, April 1943: hopeless days of revolt	557
29 'The crashing fires of hell'	568
30 'To perish, but with honour'	592
31 'A page of glory... never to be written'	611
32 'Do not think our spirit is broken'	627
33 'One should like so much to live a little bit longer'	648
34 From the occupation of Hungary to the Normandy landings	662
35 'May one cry now?'	685
36 July—September 1944: the last deportations	706
37 September 1944: the Days of Awe	731
38 Revolt at Birkenau	743
39 Protectors and persecutors	751
40 The death marches	767
41 The 'tainted luck' of survival	784
Epilogue: 'I will tell the world'	811
Notes and sources	83 j
Index	897

List of Maps

- 1 Europe 1939-1945 14
- 2 Germany 1933 34
- 3 Poland 86
- 4 Central Poland 108
- 5 The Warsaw ghetto 128
- 6 The General Government 139
- 7 The German invasion of Russia 156
- 8 The Volhynia 209
- 9 Deportations from Germany 215
- 10 The Nowogrodek region 237
- 11 Chelmno 154
- 12 Belzec 303
- 13 The Lvov region 303
- 14 Sobibor 337
- 15 Greater Germany 354
- 16 The Auschwitz region 354
- 17 Deportations to Auschwitz 377
- 18 The western deportations 377
- 19 Treblinka 394
- 20 Auschwitz-Birkenau 519
- 21 The Balkans 541
- 22 Hungary 676
- 23 Evacuations from east to west 723
- 24 The Auschwitz region evacuations 723
- 25 The liberation of the camps 791

Back cover

THE HOLOCAUST: A History of the Jews during the Second World War

'No cloacal imagery, no savage indignation, and no elaborate interpretation will ever capture the nauseating realities of Holocaust more exactly than this masterpiece of the chronicler's craft
Piers Brendon, THE TIMES

'This tome is an archivist's Kaddish, the never-to-be act of remembrance and prayer for the dead'
George Steiner, SUNDAY TIMES.

"He has done more than any historian for those who are forever silent. One reads his book with bleeding eyes'
Nora Levin, K'RA

'By far the most painful book I have ever read or am ever likely to read'
Gerald Kaufman, MANCHESTER EVENING NEWS

'Likely to remain the standard history of the Holocaust'
Conor Cruise O'Brien, OBSERVER

'Meticulously documented'
Geoffrey Best, GUARDIAN

'Heartbreaking'
Lord Beloff, DAILY TELEGRAPH

'A fascinating work that overwhelms us with its truth...
This book must be read and reread'
Elie Weisel, winner of the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize

The murder of six million Jewish men, women and children during the Second World War was a crime of unprecedented and unparalleled bestiality. Since the end of the war evidence of the savage cruelty of the murderers has emerged in every country in Europe, and from each one of the many thousand destroyed communities.Â This comprehensive history of the Holocaust from the rise of Hitler to power in 1933 to the defeat of Germany in 1945 is based on German and Jewish documentation, including material collected for the Nuremberg, Eichmann and other war crimes trials, with further personal testimony of eye-witnesses and survivors, and interviews conducted by Sir Martin.Â I have just completed reading your book The Holocaust. I had previously read various smaller works.