Reading the poem carefully will make that clear that Eliot chose those themes for some reasons; firstly because the modern society suffers from lack of communication and live in an imaginary life and most of them construct a relationship just to quench their whims, not to complete their lives. Eliot believed that modern man is selfish and careless about the main points of building sabbatical life for themselves and others. In his paper, modern man's problem has been shown on the shape of duplicity, lack of relationship and the effect of poverty on women in society, these problems are depicted in Indian English poetry is the oldest form of Indian English literature.
