The Gibbs Reflective Cycle Tool is used to systematically think about past experiences. Become aware of your actions and improve your behaviour. In 1988, the American sociologist and psychologist Graham Gibbs published his Reflective Cycle model in his book "Learning by Doing". Gibbs Reflective Cycle encourages people to think systematically about the experiences they had during a specific situation, event or activity. Using a circle, reflection on those experiences can be structured in phases. Learning by Doing: A Guide to Teaching and Learning Methods. Oxford: Oxford Further Education Unit. Gibbs, G. (1998). Reviewing and improving your teaching. Practice Guide, 7, H851. How to cite this article: Mulder, P. (2018). Gibbs Reflective Cycle by Graham Gibbs. Gibbs' Reflective Cycle was developed by Graham Gibbs in 1988 to give structure to learning from experiences. It offers a framework for examining experiences, and given its cyclic nature lends itself particularly well to repeated experiences, allowing you to learn and plan from things that either went well or didn't go well. It covers 6 stages: Description of the experience. Conclusion about what you learned and what you could have done differently. Action plan for how you would deal with similar situations in the future, or general changes you might find appropriate.
