Mr. Hamilton estimated that the deaths this summer meant the loss of up to 360 potential future right whales. "Their mortality is outpacing their births," said Charles (Stormy) Mayo, director of the right whale habitat studies research project at the Center for Coastal Studies in Provincetown. Story continues below advertisement. "So when we lose a whale like Starboard, we're losing the future." And we will fight against the tide Rolling under side by side And if our lungs give out We will breathe without And heaven's gates will open wide. Everyday is a struggle From the trough to the crest Waves keep crashing forever And only death brings us rest. Sometimes we drift on the current Sometimes we wrestle the rip If I'm not waving but drowning Promise to not lose your grip. And we will fight against the tide Rolling under side by side And if our lungs give out We will breathe without And heaven's gates will open wide. In the garden of Eden We were given a choice Whether ri
