The work of Los Angeles muralist Gustavo Zermeño Jr. has caught the attention of basketball fans the last two summers. (Alanis Thames/Yahoo Sports). VENICE, Calif. He met one Lakers fan who said he'd flown from Oakland to take a picture with it. Others had reached out to him telling him they were coming from Canada to see it. He had to tell them, "Hey man, someone tagged on it," Zermeño said. "I think that's the biggest thing that I like about doing murals," he said, "is the way it makes people feel. It makes people happy. It makes me happy to see. I put a lot of my energy, and it's my passion and I believe in what I do 100 percent, so to see people's reactions like that, that's a huge part of why I do it in the first place." "Everyone loves Anthony Davis."
