

Fundamentals of Nursing:
Human Health and Function
By Ruth Craven and Constance Hirnle
5th edition, ©2007
Lippincott Williams & Wilkins

Contents

Section I: The Conceptual Foundations of Nursing

Unit 1: The Delivery of Nursing

Unit 2: Concepts Essential for Professional Nursing

Unit 3: The Nursing Process: Framework for Clinical Nursing Therapeutics

Unit 4: Concepts Essential for Human Functioning and Nursing Management

Unit 5: Essential Assessment Components

Unit 6: Selected Clinical Nursing Therapeutics

Section II: Human Function and Clinical Nursing Therapeutics

Unit 7: Health Perception and Health Management

Unit 8: Activity and Exercise

Unit 9: Nutrition and Metabolism

Unit 10: Elimination

Unit 11: Sleep and Rest

Unit 12: Cognition and Perception

Unit 13: Self-Perception and Self-Concept

Unit 14: Roles and Relationships

Unit 15: Coping and Stress Management

Unit 16: Sexuality and Reproduction

Unit 17: Values and Beliefs

Presentation on theme: "Fundamentals of Nursing: Human Health and Function Chapter 9: Caring for the Older Adult." Presentation transcript: 1 Fundamentals of Nursing: Human Health and Function Chapter 9: Caring for the Older Adult. 4. Identify health promotion and health maintenance strategies that can give older adults advantages in maintaining optimal health. 3 Demographics People 65 years or older: 37.9 million in 2008, increasing as Boomers age 12.8% of the U.S. population & growing Life expectancy has increased for both men and women i,j R/T decreased death in infants & children Population is older, more minority i,j Increase in chronic illness, multiple illnesses in older adults.